WHAT'S IT ABOUT?

Give yourself a day—one day full of photographic sessions, from 9am to 4pm—to honor your creative self. Bring back the joy and wonder of being in nature, and holding a camera in your hand. Learn how to make pictures that soar past postcards, and capture what you are feeling, what you are seeing, and what you are thinking. Eddie will make you laugh when he shows you his first show, and you will “get it” when he clearly shows what he didn’t understand in his early years. At the time, working at a premiere photo lab, looking at the negatives of world class photographers, he kept asking, “How Come Mine Don’t Look Like That?” Digging back into his mistakes—his “good ones” at the time—he will lay out simple ideas to understand light, avoid chaos, create beautiful backgrounds, lead the eye with thoughtful compositions, and understand that if there is magic, work it, hang out, and slow down. His sessions will honor the classic landscape, giving you ideas to make it fresh and your own, and he will wholeheartedly dive into the interpretive landscape, celebrating the mindset of breaking out of your box, and making new photographs. Our day will swim in the creative, but honor the thoughtful. Get ready for a day to set you free, to shake you out of ruts, and charge you up to make new photographs, right now.

SEMINAR SCHEDULE

The presentation will commence at 9:00 AM with a short mid-morning break, followed by lunch time (12:00 - 1:30). There will also be a short mid-afternoon pause, with the seminar winding up at 4:30 PM.

Eddie Soloway is a photographer, teacher, and storyteller committed to opening our eyes to the natural world. He has taught photography and creativity for leading photographic institutions and schools around the world, and was a popular speaker in National Geographic Traveler's photography seminars. The Santa Fe Center for Photographic Arts (now CENTER) awarded Eddie the Excellence in Photographic Teaching Award, and Photo District News named Eddie one of America's best photography workshop teachers. His book, "One Thousand Moons," was published in 2004, the DVD, A Natural Eye Workshop, in 2009, A Natural Eye video series in 2015, and SEE THINK DO Photo Cards in 2017. His focus on seeing brings a breath of fresh air to the workshop world.

No food or beverages, with the exception of water, is allowed in the auditorium. Please park in the parking garage, 122 Estudillo Ave., on the same side as the library. Parking is free on weekends. If you park at the library, there is a two-hour limit and you car would be ticketed!!!
